More Screen Time News!

Latest guidelines from the World Health Organisation (WHO) advises babies and toddlers should not be left to passively watch TV or other screens. The guidelines recommend:

- more physical activity, better sleep and less screen time for under 5s
- sedentary screen time, including computer games should not happen for under 2s
- limit screen time for 2-4s to an hour a day – less is better

The UK has no plans to update its own advice on screen use, although it says children should avoid screens before bedtime.
